[2~4] 다음 글을 읽고 물음에 답하시오.

(A) 스코틀랜드 인들은 선달 그믐날을 'Hogmanay'라고 부른다. In preparation for New Year's, Scots clean the house thoroughly and prepare food. In many villages in Scotland, New Year's is celebrated in the home. The door is open to all, friends and strangers alike. In towns and cities, crowds gather in the streets. At the stroke of midnight, Scots stand in a circle to join hands and sing "Auld Lang Syne." The Scots believe that the first person to come into the house after midnight is very important. For the coming year to be lucky, this person should be a dark-haired man who is healthy, wealthy and carrying a lump of coal (to bring warmth and comfort to the home) and a sprig of mistletoe (for protection from the spirits of the old year). Flat-footed people are considered very unlucky.

One town in Wyoming is called Ten Sleep. People there had (A)their own way of telling how far away a place was. They would tell how many nights one had to sleep on a trip there. This town was ten nights from three other places. Ong's Hat, New Jersey, got its name in a funny way. Jacob Ong, who lived in this village, liked three things: dancing, women, and his fancy hat. One night, he was at a big dance. One woman thought that he should dance with her more, but he refused. Finally, she grabbed his fancy hat and threw it on the floor. Then she danced all over his hat. Midnight, Mississippi, got its name from a card game. The farmers would get together to play cards. Late one night, a player lost all his money. Then he bet his land, but he lost that, too. The winner looked at his watch. "It's midnight," he said. "That's what I'll call my new land."

In space, nothing has weight. ①This means astronauts need special things to help them live there. ②Instead of sleeping in ordinary beds, astronauts sleep in special sacks strapped to the wall, so they do not float around. ③You should be careful when you choose your mattress. ④They eat from special trays which are strapped onto their legs. ⑤These trays hold plastic containers of food. Astronauts wear special clothes with lots of big pockets to hold things they need for their work. They have to use special exercise machines for an hour every day. If they did not do this, they would get very weak because they weigh nothing in space. Astronauts work hard, but they also have a lot of fun playing with things floating around inside their spaceship.
